

Rabbi Sachs-Kohen: From ancient days, our rabbis have been endowed with authority, mission and purpose by their teachers AND by communities who embrace them. These ancient loving words have conferred upon each new Rabbi their sacred calling: Toreh, Toreh; Tah-deen, Tah-deen.

Congregation: Let her teach. Let her discern. Let her bring us wisdom. Let her seek truth with humility.

Rabbi Sachs-Kohen: Let her teach.

Congregation: Let Torah be the soul of all her teaching. Let her teach us mitzvot, a sacred way of life.

Rabbi Sachs-Kohen: Toreh – Let her teach us...

Congregation: On Shabbat, on Festivals, on Holy Days, in classrooms, by bedsides, in our joys and our sorrows.

Rabbi Goldstein: Tah-deen – In the spirit of our heritage, let her discern.

Congregation: Help us bless the sacred and keep our distance from that which is unworthy; Help us to discern between them.

Rabbi Goldstein: Let her guide with words of truth

Congregation: whether from ancient revelation or from the wise ones of our own time.

Rabbi Jasper: At the foot of Mt Sinai, our ancestors heard God's sacred call and though they could not yet know what the revelation would require of them, they responded "Na'aseh v'nishmah"

Congregation: "We will do and we will listen" We enter into covenant with one another, with our Torah, our heritage, and with our Rabbi: a mutual pledge of faithfulness, of care, of compassion, forgiveness, and trust.

Rabbi Jasper: As we affirm the covenant between us, God renews again the covenant with the Jewish people and with all humanity.

Congregation: To our Rabbi we say: We bless and welcome you. Help us to be active Jews. Help us to be learned Jews. Help us to be proud Jews. Help us to be open-hearted to any and all others seeking knowledge, community and spirituality within our doors. Work with us to manifest our faith's teaching that redemption comes only through acts of righteousness. May we learn from you.

Rabbi Jasper: May I learn from you.

Congregation: Be a friend to us.

Rabbi Jasper: Be friends to me and to my loved ones.

Congregation: Be an example to us.

Rabbi Jasper: Be examples to me.

All: Chazak, chazak, v'nitchazek. Be strong, be strong, and let us give strength to one another.
